Extra Pay to Officers and Soldiers

The third Auditor of the Treasury has issued a circular concerning extra duty pay to non-commissioned officers and soldiers of the army, in which he says that a mis-apprehension exists relative to the legality of paying the per diem authorized by the army regulations of 1861. The Auditor, therefore, decides that extra duty pay cannot be allowed except to enlisted men amployed as clerks in the military offices in Washington, at the several Geographical Divisions, Department headquarters, &c., and at the West Point Military Academy, to whom such payment is not prohibited. With the exceptions mentioned, no soldier will bereafter receive extra duty pay, and payments made by disbursing officers in violation of this decision will not be allowed to their credit on the settlement of their accounts to the Treasury.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Mexican Affairs on the Const-A Crisis Imminent - Antipathy to American Citizens.

NEW YORK, March 6 .- The World's San Francisco special says that a crisis in Mexcan affairs on the Pacific coast is imminent. The French troops in the northern and western Mexican States have been driven ignominiously to the coast, and are hemmed in in a few port towns, whence they are liable to be driven on board their vessels of war for safety. Mazatlan is besieged, its streets barricaded, and the Liberals under Carrona pressing close upon it in the rear. Fighting has commenced, in which the Lib erals, aided by Americans recently enlisted, have been victorious.

The antipathies of the French and Imperial Mexicans to Americans is increasing. There are instances of Americans having been thrown causelessly into prison, and all are subjected to growing insults.— Threats of the indiscriminate slaying of Americans are boldly made by Mexican Imperial authorities in certain towns. It is time, it is actually necessary, that war vessels be dispatched here by the United States Government at once, to prevent trouble and demand a decent respect for United States citizens and the American flag. It may even now be too late, but longer tarrying will be a crime.

Mr. CLAKK, of New Hamp hire, called up the joint resolution to give the consent of Commess to the annexation of the counties of Berkeley and Jefferson to the State of West Virginia.

Mr. RIDDLE, of Delaware, moved to amend by adding a provise that the question be determined by a vote of the people of the counties.

Mr. CLARK said the people of these counties had already voted in tavor of the annexation.

Mr. BIDLE said that out of 1600 voters in one of the counties only 30 voted. There were 1300 voters in the county now, and out of these 1250 were in favor of the proposition which he (Riddle) had presented. of the proposition which he (Riddle) had presented.

as follows:

That no part of the money hereby appropriated shall be applied to the support or pay of any cadeta hereafter appointed not in conformity with the express provisions of the law providing for the appointment of endets at that Academy.

Mr. BLAINE stated that his substitute was cerbatim etilization from the West Point appropriation bill, approved April 30, 1864, designed to cure the evil of foisting upon the Southern districts boys from the Northern States. Thirty-eight or forty Northern boys had been sent to West Point, colonized as if appointed from Southern Districts, sent there in violation of law. There were not vacancies now for one thir of the Southern Districts, The places had been filled by Northern boys appointed as if from the Southern Districts, The places had been filled by Northern boys appointed as if from the South, and would remain filled till 1867 or 1898. The President had authority to make the appointments annually, and the adoption of this amendment would be saying to the President in substance, "We cannot trust you to appoint a single cadet from the South. If you desire to nominate a son of Gov. Brownlow or of John Minor Botts, you cannot do it." This amendment would cut off from the President the power to appoint a boy from the South even though his father and all his male relations had fallen in the service of the country. He considered the amendment most liliberal, narrow and prejudicial to every thing like good feeling. It could only be justified on the ground taken by the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Stevens, that every person in the eleven robel States was an alien enemy. Not believing that, but believing that a Southern man who had been loyal to the Governmen was entitled to its protection and patronage, he (Blaine should vote a most decided negative on the amendment.

Ar. CONKLING inquired whether the amendment of substitute suggested would disturb the boys whom the genileman from Maine described as having been colonized.

is Mr. CONKLING inquired whether the amendment or substitute suggested would disturb the boys whem the geniteman from Maine described as having been colonized.

Mr. BLAINE—No, sir. Neither amendment affects them. My substitute merely prevents any further colonization from the South, and leaves the question just where the law leaves it to-day.

Mr. SCHENCK replied that as to the charge of this being a narrow minded and diliberal proposition he sould not stop to bandy epithets. He had but this to say: His amendment warned the President and Secretary of War not to violate the law. They were simply expected to conform to it. He knew that appointments to the Academy had been irregularly made, but that irregularity was stopped.—Anote of such appointments were those of No thern young men who had served in the army, and who, being in Alabama, Ternessee, or ether Southern States, got their appointments as if from those States. It amendment did not interfere with any appointment already made, but simply laid down the rule that in future no appointment should be made from any State that has been in robellion until that State is regularly re-habitiated by act of Congress, according to what seemed to be the setted policy of Congress, at least on the subject of restoration. Appointments of cadets were appointments inclidentable representative could have the nomination for that district. It was for Maynard and Stokes of Tennessee, and other such representatives, to nominate cadets, and not for the President of Secretary of War.

Mr. BLAINE asked whether his proposed substitute would not prevent the President from filling any vacancy except for the Tennessee appointments at large, to which he is entitled?

Mr. SCHENCK thought not, and asked what was the use to object if it was not identical with his own mean and illiberal proposition?

After further debate between Mesers, Blaine and Stevens, the question was taken on Mr. Schenck's amendment, his Blaine's was substitute not being able to be offered. Schenck's was adopted—peas 8

Mr. KELLY obtained the floor and the committee rose and the Houseasoon after adjourned.

The Disaster to the Steamer Lockwood.

CINCINNATI. March 6 .-- A special to the Commercial gives some particulars of the disaster to the steamer Lockwood. The explosion struck away the cabin as far back as the center of the boat, killing 20 persons instantly, and scalding and wounding 25 others. The boat took fire and burned until she sunk. The steamer Mepham going down the river at the time landed her bow against the stern of the Lockwood and saved every person not killed by the explosion. Among the killed are James Kirg, Staten Island, N. Y., and Clem Graham, second engineer. New York.

(From Walter Brown & Co.'s Monthly Wool Circu-lar, March 1.) The Wool market was very quiet through February. The causes which affected trade in January continue to operate. Woolen Goods sell very slowly, and manufacturers have no inducement to buy largely while the tendency of prices is downward.

Strictly choice fine Wools have been taken at about previous rates; but for all others, prices fayor the buyer, and inferior parcels are entirely neglected.—Stocks at the mills, however, are not heavy, and an active movement in the dry goods market would active movement in the dry goods market would impart animation to wool.

Pulled Wools are quiet, and prices have declined somewhat, especially the lower grades.
